took only one hour and eighteen minutes to decide it. A single error was charged to Kling, and was the only one made during the game. He failed to catch the ball when Nichols struck out in the third inning, and the batter reached first. Raymor, McCormick, Kruger and Wallace made the infields of the two teams almost impregnable. In the outfield Burkett, Dexter and Dolan, by sprinting fifty yards or more on several occasions, got under flies and liners. There was no scoring until the fifth inning. Up to this time both Waddell and Jones had battled successfully. Kruger walked in the fifth. Ryan sent a grounder to first and Jones struck out. Burkett hit to center and Kruger scored. Nichols went out at first.

In the last half of this inning Chicago scored its three runs. Raymer, who started with a single, was forced at second by McCormick, and Kling was given his base. Then Waddell made the home run. Two hits were made off Jones in this inning, and in the next, when Chicago scored again. Dexter led off with a three-bagger, but was nabbed by Jones on Child's choice. Raymer and McCormick then singled, the former's hit scoring Childs: It looked as if Jones was all in, but during the next two innings he did not give another hit.
